

DIETARY GUIDANCE AND DIETARY BOOKING OPTIONS

If you have confirmed on section 4 of your booking form that you and or members of your party have a special dietary requirement please read on.

Our packages are usually based on half-board accommodation, which consists of buffet breakfast and dinner. The breakfast buffet typically includes dairy products, eggs, bread, toast, jam, honey, humus, tomatoes, cucumbers and salad.

The main course frequently consists of a choice of chicken, beef, lamb or fish with various vegetables, rice, potatoes and salads. Hotels will cater for special needs when notified or requested.

We will pass on your requested dietary choice as per your booking form to airlines on the passengers list and hotels on the rooming list as part of our normal service free of charge

Since these suppliers are contracted and not under our direct employment we cannot guarantee that by passing on this information they will comply. Therefore you should contact the hotel's front desk manager (Reception) on the first day of your arrival and discuss your dietary needs with them directly, if you are concerned. Should there be a communication problem, please ask your local guide to assist you.

As some lunches are not usually pre-booked, if you have specific dietary needs, we advise you to discuss your needs with the restaurant staff so that they can accommodate your requirements. Should your requests not be satisfied, your local tour guide will always be happy to assist you at all times.

If you wish for us to provide an additional service, we will obtain written confirmation from the airlines, restaurants (if lunches are booked) and hotels that your dietary needs are understood and will be met. This additional service costs £150.00 per person and is payable before departure with your final balance.
